

A CAT Approach to Working with People with ASD - webinar

Presented by Dr Theresa Turner

Date: Monday 14th September 2020
Times: 9:30am till 11:30am
Cost: £50 (online) / £65 (invoice)
Location: online workshop via Zoom

The aim of this workshop is to enable attendees to be in a better position to deliver therapy/support to people with ASD in accordance with legislation which will be of benefit to employers, via:

- A description of the contents of the training, learning outcomes and intended audience.
- Participants sent a questionnaire for their specific requests and learning needs to incorporate into the training as much as possible.
- Time allocated for questions and answers.

Participants will be provided with training slides to refer back to after the training.

Learning outcomes / objectives

- Awareness of legal guidelines with regard to ASD
- To understand what ASD 'is' and 'is not' and consider why this is relevance to practice in therapy
- To understand how to adapt CAT to the needs of people with ASD
- Discuss some pitfalls and how to avoid them

Presenter – Dr Theresa Turner

I am a chartered forensic psychologist and CAT therapist specialising in neurodevelopmental conditions. I have worked primarily in the field of Autism, LD and ADHD in secure environments for most of my career in mental health. I now work in private practice and have done since 2017 conducting ASD, ADHD and medico-legal assessments and 1-1 therapy.

I have delivered many training workshops on understanding and supporting people with ASD and ADHD and presented at ACAT conferences and to staff teams on CAT and ASD and using CAT in case management. I am also a visiting lecturer for trainee psychiatrists at the Institute of Psychiatry Psychology and Neuroscience (Kings College, London) on the clinical management of challenging behaviour.

ACAT reserves the right to change programme content and presenters.
